A BEACH HAVEN STORY SINCE 1874

The story of our corner of Beach Haven dates back to 1874, when the Bayview House was built at the edge of the marshes where Mud Hen Creek flowed down to the bay. Boats ferrying supplies to the resort traveled through this waterway, tying up to the Bayview's porch railings. In 1883, the Bayview changed hands and was renamed the Beach Haven House, continuing to provide accommodations and meals for visitors.

Many years later, in the 1940s, the Buckalew family became its storied proprietors. They operated the restaurant and tavern until the 1990s, becoming known for tomato pies, soft-shell crabs, and the annual Lifeguards' Ball. Renovated and having survived Hurricane Sandy, Buckalew's carries on a tradition of hospitality that has defined this special corner of the island for generations.

A NEW CHAPTER: STATION No. 117

In 2019, that tradition expanded with the opening of Station No. 117 right next door. Designed as a fresh take on the Long Beach Island dining experience, Station quickly became a destination of its own, known for its inviting atmosphere, beautiful outdoor garden and covered deck, creative food and cocktails, and lovely coastal energy.

With spaces that transition effortlessly from sunny afternoon gatherings to lively evenings under the lights, Station No. 117 offers a setting that feels distinctly Beach Haven—and an unforgettable backdrop for celebrations both big and small.

Together, Buckalew's and Station No. 117 offer distinctive spaces for intimate celebrations and memorable gatherings with family and friends. Just moments from the beach, bay, shops, and historic charm of town, our restaurants offer more than a place to host an event—they offer a true Long Beach Island destination.
